DESTRUCTION FEARED.

[The] Fleet Attacks the City Forts [With]out Warning to Non-Com[batants]—The Result Still a Matter of Doubt.

[LONDON,] Sept. 13.—The Italian govern[ment has] received a dispatch from Rio [de Janeir]o dated yesterday, saying that [Admiral] Demalles has informed the rep[resentative]s of the foreign powers, at [Rio, that] the vessels of the insurgent [fleet] would open fire upon the city's [forts] after 9 o'clock this morning [...]. The forts in the bay will [be] attacked separately, it is be[lieved, an]d upon the results of this bom[bardment] the future movements of the [fleet w]ill be decided.

[In conse]quence of this announcement [instructions h]ave been made to send [the] foreign war ships and the vessels at Rio to positions out[side the] line of fire. A British gun[boat is] to leave the bay of Rio De [Janeiro at] an early hour this morning, [to] warn all incoming vessels to [keep out] until the fate of Rio [...] learned. Much anxiety [is felt] in Rio De Janeiro [as to the] fate of the city in [case] of the success of the [insurgents]. In spite of the dispatches sent [to the] Brazilian governments, doubts [are ex]pressed as to the loyalty of the [...] Gazelen and other places.

[It] is asserted that the gar[risons of t]he bay forts will, at the ex[change of a] few shots, haul down their [flags and] join with the rebels. The [government, h]owever, seems to be con[fident that the] garrisons of the forts are [loyal and] that the troops in the city [...] will support the [government] even if the forts sur[render].

[The] [succ]essful manner in which the [...] and troops re[pulsed the] attacks is cited as [proof that] the rebels will meet with [defeat] on all sides. There [are, h]owever, who doubt the [agr]eement between the [gov]ernment's defenders [and the] people that the report [...] the government side of the [...] rebels not having the op[portunity of c]ommunicating their ver[sion of aff]airs to the outside world, [it is] intimated that the [...] to land were little [...] communications going on [between the] rebel ships and the [...] the ships were supplied [with ...] and recruits. This [...] rumored, but it seems [...] That the rebels [...] number of sympathizers [...] is a fact admitted even [...] for they give that as [the reason for] suspending telegraphic [communication] with the outside of Rio [...] evidence of the govern[ment's] position and distrust [...] Everything was needed [...] the scrutiny of private [...] dispatches by the govern[ment] [...] such an extent is this [...] that all mail for the [...] is opened and read and [...] the government thinks it [...].

[Pei]xoto's government has [...] and troops all around [...] of the bay, which is seven[...] at 1 eleven, miles in ex[tent]. The entrance to the bay, [is] only about one and a quarter [miles wide.] [The en]trance, which is two [...]. This torpedo[ed en]trance is guarded [by] Fort Santa Cruz and [...] a fort situated on Sugar [Loaf].

[Admiral] [Me]llo, not Demallos, as [...] is said to have invited the [...] these forts to join causes [with] him, but, as reported, had [met with ref]usal. This story it should [...] from the government [...].

[THE AT]TACK BEGUN.

[LONDON,] Sept. 14.—The Daily News [has] [a dispatch] from Rio Janeiro: [...] the rebel fleet on the [forts] at 9 o'clock. The garrison [of] and strongest fort has de[clared for] the rebels. [F]IFTIETH CONGRESS.

[SENATE.]

[WASHINGTON,] Sept. 13.—In the ab[sence of the] Vice President, the Senate [was called to order] to-day by Mr. Harris [...] President pro tem.

[...] a bimetallic money system [...] by Mr. Peffer (Pop.) of [...] and was referred to [the c]ommittee. It provides [...] money of prior issue here[...] by the United States [...] stamped "Redeemable [in] gold and silver or in [...] Treasury notes thus re[...].

[Mr.] [Co]ke (Dem.) of Texas asked [...] to have the floor on [...] in order to address the [Senate on the] bill. Mr. Hoar ob[jected.] [Mr.] Mills withdrew the request [and gave notice of] his intention to ad[dress the Sen]ate Tuesday next at 2 [...] [Mr.] White (Dem.) of Califor[nia] [...] for Thursday next. [...] resolution for a commit[tee] [...] as to Senators owning [stock in n]ational banks was laid before [the Senate], Mr. Stewart proceeded [...] upon it.

[He] was followed by Messrs. Allen (Neb.) in support of [the resolution]. [...] the latter was still [speaking] at 2 p. m., the repeal bill [came] before the Senate. Unanimous [consent was] asked by Mr. Stewart to let [the resolution] remain on the table, but [...] calendar.

[Mr. Voorhees] (Dem.) of Indiana, chair[man of the] Finance committee, saying [...] the indulgence of the [Senate for] a few minutes, proposed to [...] to close the debate. He [said the bi]ll had been discussed [in the House] of Representatives seven[...]teen and had now been discussed in the Senate twelve days. The House was composed of 325 representatives—the Senate of only 88. He did not think that the most sensitive gentleman in opposition to the repeal bill could pretend that there had been any want of liberality in the matter he would not say courtesy, for that went as a matter of course. There had been every disposition to allow the fullest possible debate and that disposition still remained. He recognized the fact that there was a good deal of discussion yet to take place not only of legitimate, but of useful discussion. But he would like, if he could, to get an expression from those in authority to make it, as to some time when a vote might be expected. He would, by way of suggestion, indicate, subject of course, to any proposition that might come from the other side, that the vote be taken or general debate closed ten days or indeed a week from to-day.

Mr. Dubois (Rep.) of Idaho responded in behalf of the opposition. He disputed the statement that the House had discussed the measure satisfactorily in seventeen days. It had not discussed it to its satisfaction, nor to the satisfaction of the people. There were various amendments which might have been offered and debated, to the enlightment of the House and of the country. There seemed to be an immense amount of undue anxiety on the part of some Senators to absolutely destroy silver by stopping its purchase and coinage, and doing it quickly. From the distinguished Senator from Ohio (Mr. Sherman) down through the line, every one who had spoken on the bill had said that the Sherman act was not responsible for the financial distress. But the bankers who met in Washington on yesterday had with effrontery declared in their resolutions that the Sherman act was responsible. The business of the country, Mr. Dubois continued, was already reviving and why were not Senators willing to risk the effect of a little time to be spent in discussion.

Mr. Voorhes denied that there was any undue haste. He was a better friend of silver, he said than any man who favored this miserable act. When this bill was repealed he expected to assist in bringing about a proper coinage.

Mr. Dubois asked Mr. Voorhees if it would not be necessary to supplement the repeal of this act by some legislation favoring silver.

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Voorhees. "And I am ready to help engage in it. Financial legislation will not cease with this repeal."

Mr. Dubois said he did not doubt Mr. Voorhees's statements, but bullet children dreaded the fire and silver Senators did not believe the President would sign any bill favorable to silver. For that reason they proposed to keep up the fight.

Mr. Voorhees said he would renew his request at some future time, and Mr. Shoup of Idaho proceeded to address the Senate under the regular order.

He was in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. To change the ratio, he believed, would be to bring about much suffering and would fail to give the farmer the relief for which he had so long asked. He (Mr. Shoup) would oppose with all the vigor of which he was capable the repeal of the Sherman law until some better substitute was adopted.

Mr. Dolph of Oregon reiterated some statements made by him on the second day of the extra session to the effect that the business disturbances were due to the threats of hostile tariff legislation. Mr. Dolph then proceeded to argue against the free coinage of silver, and vigorously criticised the Senators from the silver states who had attempted to make the question a sectional one.

Mr. Teller (Rep.) of Colorado said that the Senator begged the question. The pending question was not a question of free coinage. It was a question whether the United States, having adopted a system of silver coinage, should now abandon it. He would, to-morrow, he said, speak briefly on this question.

The Senate then, at 4:50 p. m., on motion of Mr. Voorhees, went into executive session, and when the doors were reopened at 5:05 o'clock adjourned.

HOUSE.

Though there was far from a quorum present when the House was called to order this morning, the attendance was larger than it has been for the two days.

The committees were called for reports, but without result.

Mr. Talbert (Dem.) of South Carolina asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution reciting that the House was adjourning from day to day without accomplishing any business and that the people are daily expecting something to be done for their relief; and instructing the Committee on Banking and Currency to report at the earliest possible day the McLaurin bill, requiring the issue of $125,000,000 of Treasury notes to be distributed for the relief of the people.

Mr. Borosius (Rep.) of Pennsylvania objected.

Mr. Richardson (Dem.) of Tennessee from the Committee on Printing, reported the bill relative to printing and binding and the distribution of public documents, and asked for its immediate consideration. To this Mr. Talbert and Mr. Kilgore (Dem.) of Texas objected.

Then Mr. Richardson made the point that the report was a privileged one and was entitled to consideration; but the Speaker ruled against him and the bill was placed on the calendar of the committee of the whole.

The perfunctory calling of the committee in the second morning hour was performed and Mr. Richardson moved that the House go into committee of the whole on the printing bill, but Mr. Kilgore was present and made his presence felt by raising the point of no quorum, and thus necessitating the call of the yeas and nays. The motion was agreed to—yeas 158, nays 26, and the House went into committee.

The first and formal reading of the bill occupied almost an hour and a half, and as the reading clerks relieved each other the attendance of members became gradually less and less, until when the reading was concluded there were not more than twenty-five members in the hall, and not one of these twenty-five was paying the slightest attention. Those who remained read papers or chatted together and the Chamber wore a bored and deserted appearance.

Mr. Richardson (Dem.) of Tennessee in charge of the bill, explained its provisions.

Pending action upon the bill in detail, the committee rose and at 4:35 p. m. the House adjourned until to morrow.

Cleveland Criticised.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—The Examiner, the official organ of Democracy on the coast, takes President Cleveland severely to task in a column article under the caption, "The New Cleveland." It accuses him of becoming a Republican and says he now stands for maintenance of protective tariff, also of a gold standard; of maintenance of the spoils system as exemplified by the use of patronage to bribe or coerce Congressmen into obedience to the Executive; of centralization of power in the hands of the President to an extent that no other Chief Magistrate has dared to attempt.

SMITH'S MARTYRS.

Cherokee Strip Boomers Subject to Intense Suffering.

SMITTEN WITH HOT WINDS.

Many Faint and Die Before the Booths Clerking Facilities Entirely Inadequate—Immense Crowds Await the Opening.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 13.—Twenty thousand people were to-day added to the immense crowds on the line of the Cherokee Strip. The force of clerks at the registration booths is being increased, but work as hard as they will, the line grows larger instead of smaller. Supplies are running low and prices are going up. Meals have jumped from 25 to 75 cents. Sandwiches are 20 cents, lemonade 15 cents, water 5 cents without ice and 10 cents a glass with ice. At Arkansas City booth over 8000 are in line and registering is proceeding very slowly, the clerks being about worn out. At Orlando about 5000 are still in line and every train brings from 600 to 1000 people.

A hot wind has blown all day from the south burning everything up and [...] of dust into the faces and eyes of everybody. About twenty people four or five of them women fainted in line during the day and several are dangerously ill from the effects of the heat. A colony of several hundred negroes arrived to-day, every one having a printed certificate granting him a farm of land upon his arrival and presentation of the same to the land office. These people were victimized by some scoundrel who traveled through Louisiana and sold them these certificates at $10 each. Other parties have arrived with tickets which they supposed entitled them to a farm on the Strip for which they paid several dollars each.

The mercury in Arkansas City this afternoon indicated a temperature of 110 degrees Fahrenheit, the hottest day of the season in this part of the country. About noon one of the regulation Kansas hot winds came up from the west, with erring touch. At times it reached a very high velocity, swept the roads, fields and sand hills and drove great volumes of dirt and dust into the struggling masses that are wearily waiting at the booths on the border line. Notwithstanding that the force of clerks has been materially increased, the lines have been steadily gaining and there are more than enough now to whom numbers have been issued to keep clerks busy from now until Saturday. The scenes enacted yesterday were more than repeated to-day and many persons overcome by the heat were carried from the lines. Some of them will recover, but others will die. Six men have died to-day. There is great discontent among the homeseekers because the forces at the booths are not large enough to register more than one half of the people who wish certificates of registration. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon the authorities at Washington to-day to induce them to move the booths to Arkansas City or to discontinue all registration and to permit every one to enter the Strip and locate a claim.

Lieutenant Caldwell this afternoon sent a telegram by way of Camp Supply, through his superior officer, Colonel Parker, to Secretary Hoke Smith advising him of the conditions existing at the booths and suggesting that as the registration has proven almost a complete failure, that it be discontinued. All of the newspaper men representing metropolitan papers this afternoon united in the following dispatch to Secretary Smith:

"ARKANSAS CITY, Sept. 13.

Hon. Hoke Smith, Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.:

In the name of the papers we represent we respectfully request that you take immediate steps to alleviate the sufferings of the homeseekers, who are seeking registration at booth 9, near this city. The booth is situated on a dusty road, four miles away from water and shelter, the weather is extremely hot and hot winds are blowing agale. The suffering is great. A large number of the homeseekers have been stricken down and some of them have died. Registration is progressing so slowly that thousands of men are compelled to stand in line for days, exposed to the sun, dust and thirst. Can you not cause the booths to be removed to this city and put on a larger force of clerks, or abandon registration at once? For the honor and welfare of the administration, we beg you to take immediate action. Humanity demands it."

So bitter has the feeling become against the registration system that when Friday night arrives and it is apparent that the thousands in waiting will be unable to have their names placed on the list, a riot will be precipitated. Curses loud and bitter are aimed at Secretary Smith and his representatives here, and as the end approaches it will be difficult for the handful of soldiers to restrain the crowd. Practically the same condition exists at Orlando, Stillwater, Hunnewell and Caldwell. It will be impossible to enforce the order issued by Secretary Smith Monday, forbidding anyone to board the trains entering the Strip at noon, who are not armed with registration certificates. Train-load after train-load arrived in the city to-day loaded to their full capacity, and this influx will keep up constantly until Saturday noon. Nearly all the people coming expect to make the race and they will not be deterred from doing so by any registration rules that have been promulgated. The hot winds which prevailed to-day have greatly increased the dangers from prairie fires and the entire community since Monday have been praying for rain.

At Hunnewell this afternoon a boomer was killed in his wagon and robbed of all his money. The murderer was captured and quickly removed from town to prevent his being lynched. Several attempts at murder and robbery were made at the booths near the city to-day, but the vigilance of the soldiers prevented any fatalities. This morning a soldier engaged in an altercation with a would-be bad man fired at him in the crowd. The bullet hit the horse on which Sheriff Nipp of this county was sitting, killing it outright. He was placed under arrest by the Lieutenant in command and was taken under guard to Camp Chilloitine. It is reported here this afternoon that an organization of Oklahoma men has been effected to capture the townsite of Perry next Saturday. They intend to enter the Strip Friday night, lay in hiding near the townsite, which is surrounded by shrubbery, and rush in on it at noon. Reports brought in to Lieutenant Caldwell by soldiers who are patrolling the Strip are that the country is full of "sooners" and that there are so many of them that it is impossible to arrest them all.

The Cherokee Indian Allotment Trust has concluded all arrangements and placed town lots in each of their eight townsites on sale. They found a ready market, business men and speculators generally preferring to buy a lot outright and get a perfect title at once, than to take chances in the scramble that will be made for lots at the government county seats. The side tracks here are filled with freight cars loaded with stocks of goods to be opened at the new towns in the Strip.

THOUSANDS DEAD.

Ravages of the Plague Among the Mecca Pilgrims.

TUNIS, Sept. 13.—Of the 2000 pilgrims that left here and other ports in May last for Mecca only half have returned, the others having fallen victims to the cholera. Fully 12,000 friends and relatives met the returning pilgrims on their release from quarantine, and there were many heart-rending demonstrations of grief by the relatives of those who have succumbed to the disease. The survivors tell terrible tales of suffering. On June 24, 100,000 pilgrims were gathered on the Sacred Mount to hear a solemn address prior to their preparing for Mecca. Many of the multitude were starving. The Mount resembled a battlefield, being strewn with the corpses of victims of the pestilence, among whom were lying hundreds of the poor wretches who were dying from the dread disease. So frightening was the condition of affairs that no one dared to approach the place. Finally a battalion of 700 Turkish soldiers was sent to bury the dead and relieve the living. Five hundred of these soldiers lost their lives as a result of their devotion to duty. Of the whole battalion only 200 men escaped the pestilence.

A MILLIONAIRE'S DEATH.

Sudden Demise of Frederick L. Ames of Boston.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Frederick L. Ames, vice president of the Old Colony railroad and a millionaire, was found dead this morning in a stateroom of the steamer Pilgrim soon after its arrival at the pier.

Mr. Ames lives in Boston and he left there last evening for this city to attend a meeting of the Union Pacific railway directors to-day. About 9:30 this morning a steward knocked at the door of Mr. Ames's stateroom, but received no answer, and after repeatedly knocking, notified the captain, who had the door forced in. Mr. Ames was found lying in his berth dead.

Frederick Lathrop Ames was one of Boston's wealthiest capitalists and a cousin of ex-Governor Oliver Ames. He was born in North Easton, Mass., June 8, 1835. He began a commercial career in 1855 and has ever since been so successful that he was popularly believed to be worth $25,000,000.

Mr. Ames had immense interests in railroad stocks and was said to be a director in at least sixty railways. In Boston alone he was assessed for $5,000,000 worth of real estate. He was a trustee of Harvard University corporation and at one time had a vast amount of Union Pacific stock.

Deputy Coroner Conway, after viewing the remains of Mr. Ames, gave it as his opinion that death was due to apoplexy. Dr. Conway judged that Mr. Ames was stricken about 3 o'clock this morning and had rolled from his bed to the floor and died in that position. Death must have been nearly instantaneous.

Washington Park Races.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Nancy Hanks did not lower her record of 2:04 in her flight against time at Washington Park to-day. Twenty thousand persons encouraged her as best they could but the watch stopped at 2:06. The great crowd was attracted by Nancy and all the applause and enthusiasm of the spectators was divided between the mighty mare and her trainer and driver, Bud Doble. The track was in excellent condition, but not at its best. The rain benefitted the going, which because of the long drought had become too hard. The mare reached the first quarter in 31¼ seconds, the same time in which she trotted the first heat of her 2:04 mile at Terre Haute. Down the back stretch she maintained exactly the same speed, reaching the half in 1:02½. There, Doble loosened the mare a bit and as she turned her speed was more favorably shown. But she was not covering ground so fast for the third quarter was finished in 1:33¼. In the stretch Doble allowed Nancy to speed at her fastest pace to the stand. There she weakened, however, and she slackened perceptably. Abe Lincoln waxed her on, but she did not respond. Doble applied the whip, but it was useless. She finished the final quarter in 31½ seconds, and the mile in 2:06, a new record for the track.

Chasing the Train Robbers.

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., Sept. 13.—Sheriff Shauck and his deputies and twenty or thirty Lake Shore railroad detectives put in the day in a fruitless search for the train robbers and have not secured the slightest clue on which to form a working basis. The rain of last night so completely obliterated all traces that may have been left by the bandits, and the sheriff admits that the prospects are not promising. Officers have been throwing around in the district in the hope of stopping the robbers, but so far has met with no success and it is admitted on all hands that the work was done by professionals and that it was carefully planned.

WILL NEVER BE CAUGHT.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13. Local detectives are firm in their belief that the bandits who held up the Lake Shore express Monday morning will never be caught. They say that with the start the robbers obtained, together with the evidences of professionalism indicate that the pursued men did not go into the affair without due preparation.

World's Congress of Religions Continued in Chicago.

AN EXTRA SESSION TALKED OF!

Governor Waite May Call the Legislature Together—District Court Proceedings—Cripple Creek Mines and Stocks.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—So general an interest was manifested in the proceedings of the World's Parliament of Religions to-day that it was found necessary to arrange for overflow meetings in the smaller halls.

In the Hall of Columbus Protap Chunder Mazoondar of India delivered an earnest address in the English language, which aroused so much attention that when he had concluded the applause compelled him to return to the front of the platform and bow his thanks, the scene being emphasized by the immense audience rising to its feet and singing "Nearer My God to Thee." Picturing the history of religion in India he told in graphic language of how women had been burned to death on the funeral pyres of their husbands and related the history of the crusade against the burning of widows. Theology, he argued, meant nothing without morality, and castes, although strongly walled, were bound to come down before the interests of morality and humanity. The practice of child marriage, however, was gradually being reformed, but at the same time that a strong public sentiment was needed, especially numerous interests had interfered to the detriment of this moral reform.

A representative of the Greek church, Archbishop Dionysius Latas, of Zapte, Greece, was the next speaker. Expressing his gratification at finding himself in the company of so many distinguished men, he spoke for over an hour on the history of his own church, arguing that Greece had laid the foundation for Christianity. Unfortunately the distinguished visitor was unfamiliar with the English language, and as he repudiated the services of an interpreter, his remarks were unintelligible to the bulk of the audience, while the weakness of his voice made them difficult to understand beyond the platform itself.

In treating upon men from a Catholic point of view Father William Byrne of Cincinnati waxed exceeding eloquent. He held that man was created with a great purpose and a high aim, and that it never had been and never could be demonstrated that man was the result of evolution. If his ambitions and aspirations were never to be gratified in this world or the world to come, it must be conceded that man was the most incomplete thing in creation. Dr. Byrne was warmly applauded.

In the Congress of the Congregational Church, "Women's Work Among the Indians," was discussed by a number of speakers. "Christ's Nature," "Salvation," "The Inspiration and Revelation of the Bible," and "The Problem of Sin" were the subjects talked over in the Universalist Congress. The Lutherans discussed "Foreign Mission Work" and "Church Extension," while the Disciples of Christ compared the Church of Christ in the first century with the church of the future. Dr. C. P. Haloy of Kansas City, presided over the latter congress.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Governor Waite May Summon the Legislature on His Return.

DENVER, Sept. 13.—Governor Waite has telegraphed the several members of the legislature now in Denver, asking them to meet him on his return from the East. He says he shall probably have to call an extra session of the legislature, and wants to talk the matter over.

The Governor is expected to arrive Saturday.

Patterson's Plan.

DENVER, Sept. 13.—For several days a conference has been in progress at the Chamber of Commerce discussing the plan of establishing a State silver bullion depository on which certificates are to be issued and pass current as money. The points involved in the proposition for a silver depository are as follows:

That the State of Colorado shall be made a depository for silver bullion; that the State shall issue silver certificates for all such bullion upon the receipt thereof in quantities of not less than 100 line ounces, at a price agreed on, said price not to be less than $1.29 per ounce, to be the par value of the bullion; the State shall have power, and is authorized to sell said bullion at not less than $1.29 per fine ounce in lawful money of the United States, and redeem said certificates with the proceeds received from such sale, and said certificates shall be paid in consecutive order, beginning with No. 1, said certificates to bear legal interest and are secured by the silver deposited and by the credit of the State; said certificates to be receivable for all debts, State and county.

An attempt to get the bankers and smelter men committed to the scheme has not met with very much success. At the meeting to-day a committee was appointed to formulate some plan of action. Mr. Thomas M. Patterson is at the head of the movement, which does not meet with general favor.

Yellow Fever in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 13.—There is great excitement at Brunswick, Ga. Two deaths from yellow fever have occurred in the past twenty-four hours and that when it was believed there was no fever cases in town and all quarantines had been raised. Many people who had returned, thinking all to be safe, left to-night. The exodus is general. There is no doubt now that all cities in the fever belt will rigidly quarantine against Brunswick and quarantine will be kept on until frost comes. Telegrams show the great excitement prevailing there.

Telegraph Service Interrupted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Fire broke out in the Corcoran building in this city a few minutes before 6 o'clock to-night which greatly damaged the wires of the Western Union telegraph, whose offices are located on the upper floors of the building, and shut off all telegraphic communication of the city by that company.

The fire originated in the cupola on the roof, directly above the operating room where the wires are strung to connect with the switch boards. The cause has not yet been definitely ascertained but the supposition is that during the wet weather now prevailing an electric light wire became heavy and sagged, rubbing across another wire until the insulation became defective, thereby igniting a blaze which caught to the woodwork of the cupola starting the fire. It is now thought that about 100 wires have been burned and cut out by the firemen during their work, with the exception of a few wires at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad depot where several telegraphers have been detailed for duty. The firemen in getting at the blaze were compelled to cut a number of wires which were thrown into the street below. Considerable damage was done by water which thoroughly saturated the insulated wires, rendering them totally useless until they became became dry. The operating room was flooded with water and aside from wetting the desks instruments and papers did no serious damage. None of the switch boards suffered from the fire.

The fire was gotten under control by 6:20 and in about half an hour the debris was cleared away sufficiently to enable Manager Marean and a corps of assistants to begin the work of repairing the wires. Up to 9 o'clock all efforts to patch up any wire suitable for working purposes have been unsuccessful, and it is thought that it will be late before any connection can be made.

The Postal Telegraph company furnished the only telegraphic outlet and their wires are crowded with news filed by the special correspondents and others.

COMING HERE.

Colorado Springs Selected for the Next Keeley Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The principal thing to-day at the National Keeley convention and which developed a great deal of acrimonious dispute was the approval or rejection of the action of the executive board in revoking the charter of League 12 of Chicago. The action of the executive board in revoking the league's charter was finally approved.

The only business of the afternoon was the selection of a city for holding the next national convention. Colorado Springs, Colo., won by 28 votes.

THE DISTRICT COURT.

Trial of James Russell Upon Charge of Murder.

The time of the District court yesterday was largely consumed in the trial of the case of the People vs. James Russell, for murder in the first degree.

The facts the case are as follows: On May 3d last D. C. Underwood and Russell came together in a boarding house kept by Mrs. Russell at Cripple Creek, and after a very few words began shooting. Russell's bullet took effect while Underwood fired five shots, missing with all of them. Underwood died within forty-eight hours after the shooting.

The facts back of the shooting appear to be, that Russell and his wife were divorced some months previous. He came back to Cripple Creek early in May, however, it is stated at his wife's solicitation to again take up his abode with her. Underwood was there and had been for some months boarding at Cripple Creek with Mrs. Russell. There was a good deal of feeling between the men and just as soon as Russell stepped into the house the shooting began. There is some conflict of testimony as to what was said just before and just after the shooting.

The day was given up largely to getting a jury and the following men were finally taken: W. J. Slocum, E. E. Gould, G. W. Morris, Jas. W. Green, Geo. B. Perry, J. F. Pracht, W. A. Corson, Elmer Turner, John Potter, T. T. Palsgrove, G. P. Goldecker, T. O. Gunnell.

The opening arguments in the case were made by District Attorney Cochren for the People, assisted by J. B. Crowell, and A. Danford and J. K. Vannatta for the defense.

Following this came the testimony of Dr. Chambers and Dr. Lanterman, who attended the deceased and who assisted in the autopsy. Coroner Marlow was also examined and gave the details of the autopsy and of the course pursued by the bullet. He stated that the bullet entered the lower part of the chest and came out near the spine. The introduction of the bullet was objected to as evidence inasmuch as the coroner stated that it had been handed to him by the city marshal.

A dispute arose over the introduction of the dying statement of Underwood and it was not settled when the court adjourned.

MINES AND STOCKS.

W. J. Cox has deeded to R. J. Bolles, trustee, a one fourth interest in the Uno lode.

Calumet is quoted at 1⅝ and is selling freely, fully 20,000 having been disposed of yesterday.

Mollie Gibson was in demand yesterday at $2.08 bid, but with few sales. There were a few shares sold at $2.10.

The leasers of the Strong lode are now shipping two cars a week to Pueblo and are getting good returns from the property.

S. W. Dorsey has deed to F. L. Wright for $20,800 block 20 and lots 1 to 12 in block 27 in the town of Arequa; and also the Last Dollar lode with improvements and machinery.

The Reno Mining company vs. R. M. Womack et al., the Reno and Pet advertising the Surprise, was the title of a suit filed in the District Court yesterday.

A 100 ounce retort of nearly pure gold from the Summit stamp mill was brought to town yesterday. The new shaft of the company is now down 75 feet and will be sunk about 35 feet more before connecting with the other shaft. Work is progressing rapidly on the company's stamp mill.

The Eclipse mine has sent out its statement of gross receipts from ore sales from Aug. 1 to the 23rd, amounting to $3,001.90. Mr. Woodbury now controls 14-18ths of this mine, a ninth being held in Pueblo and a ninth in this city. Mr. Woodbury paid for his interests on a basis of $54,000 for the entire mine.

It is reported that a trio of Colorado's rich men are now looking about camp together—Mr. Hagerman, Mr. Moffatt, and Mr. Bolles. They are accompanied by Manager Palmer of the Mollie Gibson. The Florence and Cripple Creek railroad project seems now to be in a fair way of being revived and pushed to rapid completion. A Denver paper stated a few days ago that Mr. Moffatt was about to start east with the assurance that the money for the railroad could be raised before his return.

OUR RELATIONS WITH CHINA.

The Rev. and Hon. William Everett, Representative of the Seventh Massachusetts district in Congress, has introduced in the House a bill extending the time for registration under the Geary act until September, 1894, and otherwise modifying the provisions of that law. The bill has been referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. It is said to be an administration measure, and to have received, before its introduction, the approval of Secretaries Gresham and Carlisle and the Attorney General as well as of Mr. Cleveland. If this is so, it will soon be reported favorably by the committee and laid before the House.

The Chinese government has been very patient in dealing with ours upon this question, but it is obvious that unless there be some material modification of the Geary law, and that very soon, that government is likely to deport Americans now in China, including, of course, all our missionaries. It is for this reason it is said, that the President is anxious to have something done at once by our Congress that will enable him to assure the Chinese government that this country does not desire to terminate friendly relations.

This bill of Mr. Everett's seems to be a good one, both in its purpose and its details, and we hope Congress will pass it. The Geary act is an extreme measure, not justifiable in international law nor in morals; and its material modification would be approved generally by the intelligent citizens of the United States.

ANOTHER EASTERN FRIEND OF SILVER.

It has been asserted in these columns more than once that the majority of Eastern Republicans are in favor of a bimetallic standard; and evidences multiply that the assertion is correct. In a recent letter to the New York Press, Ex-Congressman Buchanan of Trenton, New Jersey, writes as follows:

The commercial world makes a grave mistake when it rejects for use as money one-half in value of its total stock of the precious metals. It seems to me time for the United States to assert its power among the nations of the earth, and to lead, not follow. Had we united and firmly asserted our intention to retain and not reject silver, I firmly believe we could have turned the tide and made possible the contemporaneous use of the two metals on a fair and honest basis. But with about one half of our voters drawing their political teachings from Europe, the time for the assertion of a virile Americanism does not seem to have arrived. I was particularly pleased with what you said about our Western brethren. They are in dead earnest, and they have cause to be. Hard times upon the Western farm and a closed Western mine mean dull times in the Eastern jobbing house and a closed Eastern mill. Their prosperity is our advantage, their adversity is our loss. The nation needs more money. It cannot have too much so long as its money is of intrinsic value. To reject silver entirely, unconditionally and permanently, is to cut down and not to increase our stock of money having intrinsic value. I do not plead for a debased dollar, but believe that the provision for the continued use on some honest basis of silver as money should have been imbedded within and made a part of the "Wilson" bill.

Mr. Buchanan is a strong Republican, and for eight years represented in Congress the Second district of New Jersey—the great pottery district of the East. His former constituents are with him for bimetallism and protection, and so are the majority of the Republicans everywhere. The two newspapers of New York that are strongly urging the silver cause to-day—The Press and Recorder—are both strongly Republican. When silver is restored to its full use as a money metal, we believe it will not be by the Populist party, which prefers unlimited paper money, nor by the Democratic party, which prefers State bank notes based on debts: it will be by the Republican party, which has always been for bimetallism, and which has carried all the constructive legislation enacted in this country for thirty years.

The address of Governor Waite at the Colorado building on Tuesday was on a par with his other recent public utterances. That is to say it was a violent and ill-timed partisan diatribe. The occasion gave Mr. Waite an opportunity for a fine address, telling something of the greatness of the Centennial State, but he was incapable of rising to the lead of his opportunity.

The vote in the British House of Lords has at least demonstrated the impossibility of getting the Home Rule bill through by the creation of new peers. A dozen, or even a score, of new lords might be made to order for a special purpose, but 370 of them is too large a lot for the resources of the royal factory.

It does no good to the silver cause to "jump on" silver men like Senator Carey, who may differ with us as to the best method of restoring the white metal, but who are sincere in their devotion to the bimetallic standard. This is not a time for friends of silver who differ on details to be calling each other names.

It is said that Queen Victoria wants Mr. Gladstone to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the country at once, and has told him so. If this be true, it may shorten that Autumn session materially, for Victoria, even if she is a queen, has some little voice in the government of Great Britain.

The Washington convention of Boards of Trade gave ex-Senator Hill all the time he wanted, and were entertained with an able speech on bimetallism, which must have made a favorable impression.

Colorado Republicans will do well to take the advice of the Rocky Mountain News contrariwise. It is generally wise to do what your enemy does not want you to do.

Cold Comfort for Democrats.

Mr. Cleveland has been in office but six months, but that brief period has sufficed for the doing of more harm to the country than was done during the thirty odd years in which the Republican party controlled the government. In all that time there was no such financial scare as that which has affected the people of late; no such general shutting down of mills, no deficit in the Treasury, and no other serious trouble with the national finances than the trouble involved in anticipating debt-payments with a surplus that was hard to dispose of. There has been of late no inflation of prices, no unusual expansion of credits, no wild speculation, no omissions of questionable paper money, literally none of the causes which ordinarily produce panic and hard times. The troubles fell upon the land like a storm bolt from the blue sky. They came when Mr. Cleveland entered upon his second term. They came because he was the bitter enemy of the protective system and the leader of a party which manifested a strong purpose to begin economical and fiscal revolution. If any other sufficient explanation of their appearance can be offered it is yet to make its appearance. In truth the nation remembers its own history, and that history shows the Democratic party to be a party of reaction and disorganization. It is a party of wreckers and the work of wrecking is now going on.—[Philadelphia Manufacturer.

Straight Republicans.

The New York Press, probably the foremost Republican paper of the country, and a firm advocate of bimetallism, predicts an early restoration of confidence in business circles throughout the country and a promising future for the white metal if Republicans of all sections will do their duty. As a measure of justice to the West it advises Republicans everywhere to take a firm stand on the silver question and declare themselves in unequivocal terms for silver. It is encouraging to note the course of influential journals of the East on the question of silver coinage. It should put to shame the narrow-minded vacillating papers of our section which are ready to renounce the very foundation principle of their Republicanism in case their claims are not recognized at once.—[Canon City Recorder.

A Significant Utterance.

"I do not think our government, even now or in the past, has exercised its power sufficiently for silver. The whole power of the government should be used to this end."—[Senator W. B. Allison in the New York Press.

Doing Reportorial Work In New York.

The ignorance of some Englishmen in American affairs and American history is something appalling. This is illustrated in one particular at least by the following incident:

Not many months ago a certain New York newspaper had on its staff a young Briton, a university graduate and a man who took honors in the dead languages at his college.

Some time before the death of ex-President Hayes the young man was sent to the Fifth Avenue hotel to obtain an interview with that gentleman, who was then stopping temporarily in the city.

Arriving at the hotel the young man sent up his name and shortly afterward was ushered into the presence of Mr. Hayes.

"Are you ex-President Hayes?" queried the Englishman, not wishing to be mistaken in his man.

"Yes," replied the ex-president. "What can I do for you?"

"Oh, I was sent to interview you," returned the reporter; and he at once set out to obtain Mr. Hayes' impressions of New York and the country. The ex-president conversed entertainingly for a few moments, and the Englishman took his leave.

No sooner had he got outside of the door, however, than a thought struck him. He must know more about the man with whom he had talked. Opening the door again, therefore, he thrust his head in and asked, "I beg your pardon, Mr. Hayes, but would you mind telling me of what you were president?"—New York Herald.

An Artilleryman In Skirts.

The village of Southall was the scene of a curious incident the other day. A young artilleryman who had exceeded his leave and had been posted as a deserter, having been arrested, was being conveyed under escort to the railway station en route to the military depot, when he suddenly bolted and quickly disappeared. For upward of an hour the sergeant and two privates scoured the neighborhood in search of their prisoner, but all in vain, and were making their way back to the station, when their attention was directed to what was apparently a closely veiled female of remarkably fine figure who was hurrying along a short distance ahead of them. The suspicions of the sergeant were at once aroused, and ordering his men to "double" the escort surprised the "lady" as she was about to cross a meadow leading into the open country. The sergeant unceremoniously raised her veil, beneath which he discovered, as he anticipated, the face of the deserter.—Pall Mall Budget.

Facts About Caves.

Caves have in all ages of the world excited the awe and admiration of mankind, and have been the centers around which cluster many queer legends and superstitions. They were the abodes of the sibyls and the nymphs of Roman mythology, and in Greece they were the early temples of Pan, Bacchus, Pluto and the moon. They were also the places where famous oracles were delivered.

Their names not unfrequently show the survival of some superstitious ideas of the earlier world; for example, the "Fairy's," "Dragon's" and "Devil's" cave, which are so numerous all over the world. Cave superstition remained longer in Germany than any other country, and the "Little Men," which formally were supposed to inhabit the forests, are in some Rhenish localities still believed to exist in the form of "cave elfs."—Philadelphia Press.

Racing For a Fence In Battle.

At the battle of Chickamauga the Federal General Wood, commanding a division, was left for a time by some blunder with only a brigade at hand. He could see the Confederate battle lines advancing to flank the Federal army. Between him and them, crossing the center of a valley, was a stone and log fence. Wood suddenly realized that if he could secure and hold the fence he could make his inferior force a match for the enemy preparing to move. The Confederate commander saw the value of the position at the same moment, and it was a question of which side should get there first. On the Federal side it rested with the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Ohio, that regiment being nearest the fence.

When ordered forward, the men gripped their muskets at a "trail," pulled down their caps and lowered their heads, and at the word they rushed as if breasting a hailstorm. More than one poor fellow went down under the rain of bullets and fragments of shell, but the fence was reached and cover obtained. The Sixty-fourth, Sixty-fifth and Fifty-eighth Indiana followed, and the whole brigade were scarcely under cover when the Confederates were within a stone's throw. They had to give back before the terrific fire, and for a time were badly demoralized. Before they could flank Wood out of his position the gap in the Federal lines had been filled.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

The Cooling or the Stimulating Bath.

A bath is cooling or stimulating according to the friction applied. An authority on this subject gives the following prescription for a cool or summer bath: A dip into cool water; white soap if the skins needs cleansing; mop dry first with a sponge and then with a soft towel. This sort of bath has a wholesome effect on children and is particularly good for young mothers and nurses, who need to economize their strength. The bath taken with the friction of flesh brushes and coarse towels is a stimulant and should be followed by rest or some light nourishment to counteract the exhaustive results.

There are 7,000,000 pores in the body. These windows of the respiratory system are wide open after a stimulating bath, and if it is convenient to go from the bath to the bed the very best results will be obtained. A catnap of five or ten minutes will prevent an attack of cold and give the body the sensation of accumulated force. The sanitary value of the sponge bath can hardly be exaggerated. The vital statistics of the city prove that clean people escape the 999 ills that inconvenience the unwashed. The upper exquisite classes live and die, but the undercrust classes are never well.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

One of the most remarkable of the many purposes of construction to which paper has been applied is announced. It is a factory chimney 48 feet high composed of this material, which has been put up at Breslau, and is said to be absolutely fireproof.

In the past 10 years crematories have been established in 15 cities, and it is asserted that in that time their business has increased 50 per cent, showing a steady growth of sentiment in favor of this method of disposing of the dead.

Lady Shelley has left the unpublished letters of Shelley—those which are really to clear up obscurities—to the Bodleian library under conditions which preclude their being read for yet another 30 years.

It's only a step from the sublime to the ridiculous, but how can there be any danger of a man being ridiculous when he cannot get so far as sublimity?

FETE AT THE CAPITOL

COMING CELEBRATION OF ITS ONE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY.

An Address by the President—Oration by William Wirt Henry—Chorus by a Thousand Voices—A Retrospective View—Changes Wrought by the Hand of Time.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The people of Washington are anticipating great times on the 18th of September. On that day Washington will practically celebrate its own existence, for just 100 years before the cornerstone of the capitol building was laid. The citizens have been at work for some time preparing for the event, and the promise is for a celebration of unusual proportions. Congress has made the day a legal holiday in the district; a grandson of the illustrious Patrick Henry, whose clarion notes sounded the Virginia cavaliers to arms, will be the orator of the day, and parts will be taken in the celebration by both houses of congress. Of course there will be bands, plenty of them, for who ever heard of a celebration in Washington without bands? There will also be a chorus of over a thousand voices.

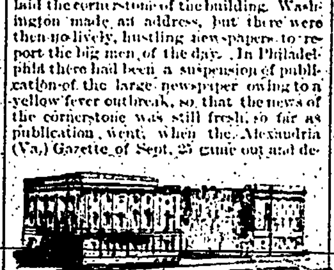

The idea of celebrating the centennial of the great pile whose magnificent proportions and stately grandeur have extorted exordiums from Italians familiar with St. Peter's, and of Englishmen accustomed to venerate St. Paul's, originated with the inhabitants of capitol hill, whose forefathers got the capitol building erected facing their way and then put up the price of their land until the town went the other way over bogs, creeks and morasses into the high ground of the now fashionable northwest section.

The celebration naturally suggests a retrospective view of what changes the century has witnessed in the American capital, located in a pestilential swamp and now regarded as the most beautiful of cities. But the most striking point in the glance backward is what has not taken place—the utter absence of any mob uprising, to overcome which and enable artillery to be converged on any threatened point L'Enfant, the French engineer, brought up amid the turbulence of the French capital, set off the future city of Washington into wide streets and wider avenues, all radiating from the capitol.

Tradition has it that the site where congress now convenes was the council ground of the Manahoacs and Monacans, Indian tribes who occupied the District of Columbia region when the first English settlements were made. It is also narrated that in 1663 the present site of the capitol was named "Rome" by its Scotch occupant, one Pope, who christened the little creek that then ran at the foot of the hill where the Peace monument now stands (the creek has since been converted into a sewer) Tiber.

The original structure of the capitol, which has since been added to from time to time, was the production of a Frenchman named Stephen Hallet, improved by an Englishman named William Thornton, and a right lively quarrel the Gaul and the Anglo-Saxon had over the authorship of the plans.

It was on Sept. 18, 1793, that, with impressive ceremonies and in the presence of a large concourse, President Washington laid the cornerstone of the building. Washington made an address, but there were then no lively, hustling newspapers to report the big men of the day. In Philadelphia there had been a suspension of publication of the large newspaper owing to a yellow fever outbreak, so that the news of the cornerstone was still fresh, so far as publication went, when the Alexandria (Va.) Gazette of Sept. 25 came out and described the ceremonies.

THE CAPITOL AFTER ITS DESTRUCTION BY THE BRITISH.

The procession, the publication says, "marched two abreast in the greatest solemn dignity, with music playing, drums beating, colors flying and spectators rejoicing, from the president's square to the capitol." At the capitol the usual Masonic ceremonies appear to have been performed, George Washington, in addition to being president, being a grand master pro tempore of the order, and taking part in a roast ox barbecue, which ended the celebration.

An English architect named Latrobe succeeded the designers, and it was under him that the building was nearly completed when the British burned it in the raid on Washington. He rebuilt it, and then Architect Bulfinch of Boston took hold, and in 1827 the modest structure was reported finished—cost, $2,433,844; perhaps 10 per cent of the total cost of the structure of today.

A second cornerstone celebration came along in 1851, when on July 4, President Fillmore presiding, the first stone in the two new wings was laid and Daniel Webster delivered an address.

Thomas U. Walter of Philadelphia designed the magnificent dome which was subsequently constructed, and the building was added to until it reached its present apparently almost finished shape.

The centennial celebration to be held here will be in its general outlines the same as the original ceremonies. Invitations have been sent out to Masonic and other societies, and all the governors of the several states have been invited to attend. Many of them have accepted.

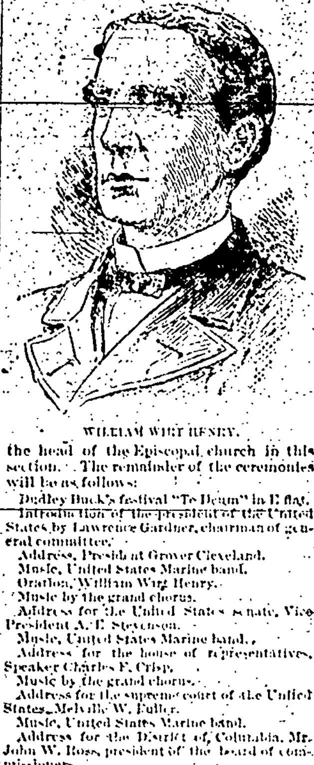

William Wirt Henry, the orator of the day, is a direct grandson of the illustrious Virginia orator. He is now an elderly, dignified gentleman, whose home is in Richmond, where he stands high as a scholar, an historian and a lawyer. He is tall and spare, with a kindly face and luminous, intelligent eyes. He has not pushed himself forward much, but in two sessions in the Virginia legislature in the readjuster days stood firmly in support of good faith in meeting all obligations of the state.

Mr. Henry was in the Confederate army. He was the orator at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876, and in 1891 was president of the American Historical society. He is now president of the Virginia Historical society and commissioner on the Peabody board of education. His late years have been almost entirely devoted to historical literature, to the exclusion of his profession. He is studious in his habits and likes to retire to his fine private collection of works relating to Virginia. Among his papers are "The Truth Concerning George Rogers Clark," "The Rescue of Captain Smith by Pocahontas" and several on Patrick Henry.

The whole programme here is in charge of a general committee composed of citizens and a joint committee of congress, Senator Voorhees being the head of the senate end of the committee and Representative Bynum of Indiana of the house committee. The chairman of the local citizens' committee and the man under whose direction all the work has been done is Lawrence Gardner.

Mr. Gardner is known generally as the secretary of the League of Democratic Clubs and also as one of the working members of the Democratic campaign committees. He is a short man who weighs as much as though he were 7 feet high and of corresponding width.

The ceremonies will be opened with prayer by the Rev. Bishop Paret, of Maryland,

the head of the Episcopal church in this section. The remainder of the ceremonies will be as follows:

Dudley Buck's festival "Te Deum" in E flat.
Introduction of the president of the United States by Lawrence Gardner, chairman of general committee.
Address, President Grover Cleveland.
Music, United States Marine band.
Oration, William Wirt Henry.
Music by the grand chorus.
Address for the United States senate, Vice President A. E. Stevenson.

Address for the District of Columbia, Mr. John W. Ross, president of the board of commissioners.
Music, "America," United States Marine band, grand chorus and audience.

The grand chorus it is expected to make a splendid feature of the celebration. The entire city has been laid off into sections, and these sections are frequently rehearsed and then brought together for a joint rehearsal. The effect of this thousand voiced chorus singing patriotic airs it is thought will be very impressive. The probabilities are that instead of only a thousand singers 1,500 will take part. Washington is rich in musical talent, but heretofore it has never been possible to get up a chorus of more than 400. It is already suggested that with the work already done it will be easy to make a permanent organization and have in Washington annually great musical festivals such as are features in Cincinnati and in Worcester, Mass.

Uncle Joe—This is a queer world.
City Man—What makes you think so?
Uncle Joe—Well, a painter feller came down to my place last summer, and while he was loafin about painted a picter of my dog. I heard afterward that he sold it fer $50, so I brought up the dog, thinking I could git at least a cool $100 for him, but, by jingo! I can't even give him away.—Exchange.

Having filled a net, the worker, with a peculiar fling, lands the load again in a sieve perched upon a wagon. This sieve allows the pebbles of commercial size to pass through into the wagon and rejects those too large, which fall back pattering into the road. It is a common thing to see two and three wagons at a time bunched along the beach in Lake View, each attended by a bare legged man with one of the peculiar gravel scoops in his hands.—Chicago Tribune.

The Cat Tribe.

The Angora cat is peculiar. When its fur is entirely white, the animal is invariably blind, but when there is even the slightest tinge of color the vision is as perfect as in any other normal cat. This phenomenon is not accounted for. The only case of similar kind known is that of the fishes in Mammoth cave, which have no eyes. There is a reason for this, though, for even if the fishes had eyes they would be unable to see anything, owing to the intense darkness, which is never relieved except by the torches of occasional visitors.

The cat is a member of the family of felidæ, which contains also the lion, tiger, panther and lynx. All of these animals have been gifted by nature with the same traits. They are cunning, endowed with rapid and noiseless motion, and provided with sharp claws, strong, sharp teeth and eyes that see nearly as well at night as in the day, though none of the felidæ is farsighted. The domestic cat is originally lived in forests.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Major R. H. Hendershot and his son, the original drummer boy of the Rappahannock, will attend the G. A. R. camp fire at Festival hall on the afternoon of Sept. 9 and give his wonderful imitation of a battle and the Columbia quickstep.

For state meeting of Knights of Pythias, at Pueblo Sept. 12th to 16th, the Santa Fe will sell tickets on the 11th at one fare, good for return until 17th.

CHEROKEE STRIP OPENING

At noon, Sept. 15th, this fertile strip will be thrown open for settlement. The government, recognizing the fact that the Santa Fe railroad reaches all the important points in the strip, has located three land offices on this line, where there have been erected large buildings for the accommodation of settlers, and wells have been sunk to supply water. These stations are Alva in the northern central portion, Woodward in southwestern portion, and Perry in southeastern portion. Registering booths have been located at the different stations on the Santa Fe along the border of the strip, where settlers can obtain all required papers and secure outfits and supplies. These land offices and booths as well as all the towns along the northern border are reached only by the Santa Fe route, which offers inducements to settlers superior to any other line. Illustrated folders containing map of the strip and full instructions how to take up a claim free upon application to Santa Fe ticket office.

HIGH CARNIVAL AT ST. LOUIS.

THE METROPOLIS OF THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY AGAIN PRESENTS A PROGRAMME

Paris, the most magnificent city on either continent, has for ages held the proud title of "the premier carnival city of the world." However, during the last ten or twelve years an American rival of no mean pretensions has contested for that high honor, and to-day St. Louis holds what Paris so reluctantly relinquished, the title of "the carnival city of the two continents."

Not content with the successful exhibitions of previous years, the Autumnal Festivities Association has arranged a programme for 1893 that for brilliancy and variety will be difficult to improve upon. The first of the great attractions, the St. Louis Exposition, will throw its doors open to the public Sept. 6th and continue until Oct. 21st. The world-renowned Sousa's Band has been engaged by the management, which in itself is a sufficient inducement to crowd the magnificent building during every concert.

Special attention has been paid to the street illuminations, and on the evenings of August 12th, 17th, 28th and 31st, September 7th, 14th, 21st and 28th, and October 2d, 5th, 12th and 19th the most magnificent display yet attempted will greet the eye of the fortunate visitor, electricity playing a prominent part. The evening of October 3d the Veiled Prophet and his followers will parade through the principal thoroughfares, and immediately after the great ball, which has received considerable prominence throughout the world, will be held.

The said great St. Louis Fair and Zoological Gardens, October 2d to 7th, will be the crowning week of the carnival season. This institution has no peer, and is known in every land where the footprints of civilization exist. The Missouri Pacific Railway and Iron Mountain Route being distinctly St. Louis lines, and having at all times the interests of the city in mind, have made a remarkably low round trip rate from all points on the entire system to St. Louis and return during the festivities.

For further information in regard to rates, route, limit of tickets and for a copy of the fall festivities programme, address nearest ticket agent in your territory, or H. C. Townsend, G. P. and T. Agt., St. Louis.

REMARKABLE DISTRIBUTION OF

AT NOMINAL PRICES,

And that can only be made possible by our co-operation for the benefit of our readers. These books cannot be obtained at less than wholesale price in any other way than as described below.

We take pleasure in announcing to our readers that we have made a contract whereby we can furnish them with standard books at absolutely less than wholesale prices. The books which we offer each week are by world-famous writers, and are printed from absolutely new type made specially for these works. The books are bound by an entirely new process which does away with the old style of thread or wire binding. Each leaf is bound into the book separately and amalgamated with the whole, allowing the book to lie perfectly flat when open, giving ease and comfort to the reader.

Each week we will announce a new book. Save your coupons as we will be sure to announce books which you will not fail to order.

WE CHANGE NUMBER EVERY ISSUE.

Mrs. K. H. Field left last evening for the East.

Mr. Geo. H. Webster returned yesterday from an Eastern trip.

Mr. Otis S. Johnson went eastward over the Rock Island last night.

Mr. Geo. M. Carter of the Union Gold Mining company will leave to-day for the Fair.

Mr. F. B. Wortman of Cripple Creek is in the city on business connected with the District court.

Mrs. J. D. Schmidlap of Denver is visiting her son, Wm. Schmidlap, of Robinson's drug store.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to James G. Brown and Jamie Snowden, both of Denver.

Dr. Estill reports a bold case of larceny. A thief entered his yard in broad daylight and stole his saddle.

Mr. J. S. Troy, one of the leasers of the C. O. D., is in the city from Cripple Creek; also Mr. Fred Spratt.

The Newport family left last evening for Philadelphia, accompanying the remains of the late Wm. C. Newport.

Miss Effie Elaine Hext leaves the 18th for Chicago, where she has been engaged to read for the Harvard club.

The public are invited to attend the All-Day religious meeting to-day at the tabernacle, corner of Bijou and Tejon street.

Mr. Slaughter Bassett, of Bassett & Fitzpatrick, with his wife, left yesterday for a pleasure trip of a couple of weeks up Ute Pass.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich returned yesterday from a six weeks' outing. They visited various Atlantic coast resorts, as well as the great Fair.

Tickets are selling rapidly for Miss Hext's recital in the First Baptist Church, Friday, Sept. 15, and a rare treat is assured. Admission 25 cents.

There are undelivered telegrams at the Western Union Telegraph office for Mrs. Alice Simpson, Mrs. S. D. Aiken, Miss Ida Pollard and Mary E. McKinney.

All children who will be six years of age on or before Jan. 1 should enter school at once, as classes are formed for beginners at the commencement of the school year only.

All are asked to remember the chalk-talk to be given next Friday evening, at 7:30, in the First M. E. Church, for the benefit of the needy. Admission 15 cents, and the entertainment will be worth far more.

Mrs. J. L. Marston and her son, A. G. Marston, will leave to-night for Chicago and later New England. They will be gone three months. Mr. Marston's eldest son, formerly a resident of this city, is critically ill in Massachusetts with heart trouble.

The D. & R. G. has made a one fare rate for the round trip to Denver and return for the delegates and the public for the occasion of the Odd Fellows annual session which is to be held Oct. 2 to 7. Tickets will be sold on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1; final limit Oct. 8.

The Populists have discovered that Courthouse hall is not to be had for their convention, next Saturday, owing to court business. They have therefore secured Weber hall for the great occasion. The rank and file of the party are still very much at sea regarding the nominations to be made, and have therefore made an appointment to meet at Judge Abbott's office on Friday to talk over the candidates. The political conventions are booked in the following order: Populist, Sept. 16; Democratic, Sept. 22; Republican, Sept. 30.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A special class in dumb-bell and wand exercises will meet this evening for the first practice drill in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Matters are progressing nicely for the Y. M. C. A. "Gym" benefit to be given Sept. 25. All are asked to bear this date in mind.

Union Bible class at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 7:30. All who are interested in the study of the Sunday school lesson are invited to be present.

Quite a large number of business and professional men are asking, "When is the business men's class in the 'Gym' to start up?" From all indications the class will be a large one this season. Now is the time to join the association and get the benefit from the start of all the class work.

Stole "Uncle" Bailey's Rabbit's Foot.

Annie B. Bailey is the name of a young colored woman who spent last night in the calaboose in the city jail. She is a veritable iconoclast, for she stole the left hind foot of a rabbit—and what is worse it was the quaint and curious watch charm, made for and presented to dear old Uncle Bailey, by his friends at the courthouse when he concluded his long service for El Paso county; and which since his death has been religiously kept in the secret recesses of her best dress pocket by Auntie Bailey, the relict of the deceased.

Annie Bailey is a good looking colored girl who claims relationship with Uncle's family. She came down from Denver a few weeks ago and said Uncle Bailey was her uncle "sure enough." Auntie took her in somewhat against her wishes and has since been keeping the girl, but she wasn't altogether sure of the relationship.

The girl had no money, but was not long in discovering where the chain and charm were concealed. She took them, and without a quiver pawned them for $1 to a woman friend. She expected to get the cash in a few days, she said, and redeem the chain. Auntie Bailey was wild over her loss and called upon the police. The finger of suspicion rested upon the girl and she finally confessed and the chain and charm were recovered.

Last night she was asked if she didn't expect the spirit of Uncle Bailey to "han't" her for stealing his rabbit's foot, and she said "No, he can't do nothin'; he's dead now."

NO STRIKE PROBABLE.

The Rapid Transit Men Send a Proposition to the Company.

It is probable that there will be no strike of the employees of the Rapid Transit company. The main reason is that there are too many unemployed men who are waiting to take their places. The men are divided on the subject. Some are disposed to accept the cut while others are vehement in their denouncement of it.

It was the subject of a great deal of talk at the Armory hall meeting early yesterday morning. The men finally concluded to present a proposition to the company agreeing to accept 17½ cents per hour for all motormen now employed or to be employed. The company has not yet taken action on this proposition owing to the absence from town yesterday of Mr. A. L. Lawton, the manager.

Mr. Lawton returned last evening and in discussing the subject said: "I have just returned from an out of town trip and do not know what the situation is. I think, however, matters will be arranged satisfactorily. We have a good set of boys on the whole and they will not be led astray by the few. Under the new rate they will receive very fair wages for these times. I do not think they will strike because there are too many men who would be glad to get their places. We could have 100 men here in twenty-four hours who could do the work. I think the men understand the situation and the necessity for the cut and they will be willing to abide by it."

JOHN KING KILLED.

John King, a Rio Grande trackman, was killed yesterday afternoon at 1:30 at Roswell. He was with a gang of workmen repairing the track and was sent south to flag a north-bound Rio Grande train.

After doing this he came back for some distance and stood by the track talking with Al Baur. They heard a Rock Island switch engine behind them coming south and Mr. Baur jumped in time to save himself. King was struck and almost instantly killed. His clothing was torn and his watch smashed to pieces.

Coroner Marlow was summoned and took charge of the remains. He held no inquest. King was 55 years old was unmarried. He is thought to have a sister in Denver. An examination of his clothing brought to light $185 in money, and the Coroner found that he had left two $500 bills with his landlady. It is thought that he is possessed of other property in this city.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 3 to 4 per cent.; last loan at 3, and closing offered at 3. Prime mercantile paper 8@12 per cent.

It was a quiet day at the Stock Exchange, the transactions footing up only 204,??? shares. The undertone of the market was strong throughout, and the occasional raids made by the traders had but a passing effect on values. The fact that the active stocks gained ¼ to 2¼ per cent. for the day shows plainly that the operations of the bear contingent, as usual of late, count for little in the current speculation. At the opening some of the active stocks, notably Manhattan, declined, but outside the stock named the loss was merely fractional.

The firmness of the list in the face of the decreased railway earnings and the poor condition of the crop continues to mystify the professional traders who have been contesting the rise. London made its appearance as a buyer. Easier money and a belief that the Bank of England will lower its rate to-morrow accounts for the bullishness of English operators. The stock market closed firm.

Railway and miscellaneous bonds were very irregular, the sales being $1,058,000.

Exchange on London 4.82¼. Sight drafts 4.84@4.85. Bar silver 73¼.
